

BELIEVES HE SAW MISSING GIRL ON SPEEDING TRUCK

Poughkeepsie Merchant Furnishes First Clue in Disappearance of Esther Paige.

POUGHKEEPSIE, June 28.—The first real clue in the disappearance of eight-year-old Esther Paige from Dover Plains on June 6 has been furnished by a Poughkeepsie merchant who was at Dover Plains on that day. This man saw a little girl who answered closely the description of Esther riding on a Ford truck. The driver, who was sitting beside the child, had dark hair and dark complexion. The truck was travelling fast and the child seemed frightened. The authorities believe the girl is alive, but the motive for taking her away remains a mystery. All the towns and villages along the Ten Mile and Housatonic Rivers have been taking part in the search.

On the day Esther disappeared she left the Dover Plains school grounds with her chum, Blanche Benson. As they went down the State Road they saw a large covered moving van. Esther, who had heard stories of children being stolen by gypsies, persuaded Blanche to make a cut across lots to avoid passing the van. Blanche left Esther and went through a field to her home, she says. Since then the woods and heavy brush have been thoroughly searched.

TENANTS WIN SUIT IN RENT INCREASES

Court Upholds Decision
Reducing Demands for Raises in Riverside Drive.

The Appellate Division has confirmed the judgment of Justice Davies of the Municipal Court in reducing the demands for increased rentals made by the owners of the Hendrik Hudson apartments at Cathedral Parkway and Riverside Drive.

Justice Davies reduced the 50 to 99 per cent. increases asked by the landlords to about one-tenth of what was demanded. For instance, where a tenant paying $1,600 a year was asked for $3,000 under a new lease, Justice Davies fixed the rent at $1,750, where a tenant who had been paying $2,100 was asked for $3,200, the decision said he need pay only $2,500.

Jacob Walz of No. 271 West 125th Street was attorney for the protesting tenants.

Companies Withdraw
After 14 Years.

The Peoples Trust Company and the Brooklyn Trust Company, two of the largest financial institutions in Brooklyn, announced yesterday their withdrawal, effective to-day, from the New York Clearing House Association, of which they have been members for four-teen years.

The withdrawals are the result of a change in the constitution of the Clearing House Association, providing for a revision downward of interest rates to be paid by commercial banks. It was announced that both institutions would clear, hereafter, through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. It was reported that the Nassau National Bank, the third big financial institution in Brooklyn, might also withdraw.

Under the new rules adopted by the Clearing House Association the limit to be allowed on daily balances of large depositors was fixed at 24 per cent. The two trust companies declared enforcement of this rule would cause a reduction in their deposits.
